

ABSTRACT

In this research, two-dimensional differential transform method is proposed to solve nonlinear Gas dynamic and Klein-Gordon equations. The approximate solution of these equations is calculated in the form of a series with easily computable terms. The results reveal that the proposed method is very effective and simple.